Alexandria Gazette.

THURSDAY EVENING, MAR. 24, 1904.

Suicide of Real Estate Broker. D. Robertson Dunlop, a real estate broker of Washington, was found dead in his room in the Phoenix Hotel in Lexington, Ky., yesterday morning. He had committed suicide by means of chloroform and a revolver. Dunlog was found lying on the floor of his room Dunlop with his head on his arm, in the hand of which was grasped a revolver, and his face buried in a pillow. A handker-chief which had been saturated with chloroform lay under his face. An empty bottle which had contained chloro form was found on the dresser. One bullet had been fired from the revolver and had entered the right temple. It was apparent that death had been instantaneous. The door had to be broken open to get into the dead man's room. The coroner found $2.86 in money in the dead man's clothes. He had a new trunk, but it contained nothing of value. A Bible, a present from a Sunday-school teacher, was lying on the bed, which had not been occupied Dunlop went to Lexington two or three days ago. He was well-dressed and put up at the Phoenix Hotel instead of going to the home of his parents. No motive for the suicide is given, but it is believed he was not prospering in Washington, and went back to Kentucky to start over again. He was discouraged by the prespect and took his life. The young man was about thirty-two years of age. Duniop was a real estate broker, with office in the Metzerott Building in Washington.

Attack on Roosevelt.

President Roosevelt was denounced as a "grafter," "a sniffling Uriah Heep," "a lawbreaker" and as a man who "aped royalty" by Webster Davis, Assistant Secretary of State under McKinley, in a speech made at the Democratic Club in New York, Tuesday night. Robert B. Roosevelt, uncle of the President, was an interested listener.

Charles F. Murphy gave a dinner at the club to Davis, who recently went to that city and joined Tammany Hall. Mr. Davis's speech had been widely advertised by the club, his subject being "A Sane Democracy the Moral Issue." He said that he could write the democratic platform in a line : "Roosevelt must be retired to private life." He aroused great enthusiasm by references to ex-President Cleveland, whose name every time it was mentioned was vehemently cheered.

After an attack on republican policies Mr. Davis said:

"And lest we forget, we shall point out how this administration, steeped in rank corruption as it is, has prostituted the powers of government to fatten the coffers of its favorites and made the postoffice and other departments a stench in the nostrils of all America-respecting Americans. And I venture to predict that when the mask is torn from the hide ous visage of official corruption at Wash ington and it is held up in the limelight of public discussion the condemming voice of the people will burst forth like thunders from Sinai."

READ IT THROUGH.

'Twould Spoil this Story to Tell It in the Headlines.

To use an eighteenth century phrase, this is an "o'er true tale." Having hap-pened in a small Virginia town in the winter of 1902, it is a story very much of the present, Up to a short time ago Mrs. John E. Harmon, of Melfa Station, Va., had no personal knowledge of the rare curative properties of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. "Last January," she says, "my baby took a dreadful cold and at one time I feared she would have pneumonia, but one of my neighbors told me how this remedy had cured her little boy and I began giving it to my baby at once and it soon cured her. heartily thank the manufacturers of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy for plac-ing so great a cure within my reach. I I was." For sale by Richard Gibson.
